

Learning Disability Week | 18th – 24th of June

To celebrate Learning Disability Week 2018 we are sharing artist Amy Ellison's colouring book illustration 'Colour in Corrie' a layered composition of characters, past and present, from Coronation Street, the famous ITV soap that inspires many of our artists and their creative practice everyday.

To help raise awareness of Learning Disability Week 2018 and to tie in with Mencap's theme 'Health', we are inviting you to join us to take a few mindful minutes of your day to relax and refocus and colour in Corrie.

'I am so happy to be sharing my artwork with you for Learning Disability Week. Make sure you colour it in neatly! First I drew Coronation Street characters on paper then I traced it. I traced it on paper in different ways. I made patterns, heart shapes, triangles and waves to go inside.' – Amy Ellison Share your finished coloured in artwork with us and send us a photo on Twitter, Instagram or Facebook using the hashtag's below and to help raise awareness of Learning Disability Week!

You can also download your own copy and from our website.

Find out more about Learning Disability Week and related events happening in your area at www.mencap.org

Artwork credit: 'Colour in Corrie', hand drawn illustration by Amy Ellison

Twitter | @VentureArts
Instagram | @venturearts_
Facebook | @VentureArtsManchester

www.venturearts.org

#LDWeek18
#ColourinCorrie

